THE LARGER SCHOOL UNIT

A meeting was held in the Community hall, on Tuesday, September 21st, for the purpose of explaining the plan of the Larger School Unit. Chief Inspector Fuller occupied the chair and Inspector C. C. Bremer addressed the meeting. Mr. Fuller in his opening remarks referred to some of the countries and referred to some where this plan had been adopted—Norway, Australia, Scotland, British Columbia and certain parts of Alberta. Among the advantages claimed for the new system were better equipment and buildings, separate room for high school, Health Clinics, better selection of teachers' and stability of profession, etc. Mr. Bremer followed with the "modus operandi." There would be sixty-eight schools included in this district, should the new plan be put into operation. There would be five subdivisions, each with a divisional board of five members who would be paid for their services, and allowed mileage in addition. There would be a whole time paid secretary for the Unit. There would also be a local board and secretary to look after the school property. The cost of operation might be a little higher but many advantages would be gained. A few questions were asked, and some of the trustees present requested that a standing vote be taken on the proposal, to which the speakers good naturally agreed. The result was twenty three against and twenty in favor of the Larger Unit. About fourteen rural school districts were represented. A vote of thanks was given to the speakers.

Art Hopkins will hold an Auction Sale for Mr. B. D. Hunter at his farm half a mile south of Carmangay, on Tuesday, October 12, commencing at 10 a.m. cattle, horses, pigs, implements and household furniture are on the list. Free lunch at noon. Terms cash.

The bride is the daughter of old timers of the district, having taught at the Vale school for the past three years. The best wishes of the community go with the happy couple.

Fending Off Disaster

The season is rapidly approaching when fire hazards of the winter months will be drawn to the attention of the people of the western provinces in campaigns conducted by provincial and local authorities. It is to be hoped, not a vain effort, to prevent the usual loss of life and property through the carelessness of cold weather and carelessness.

Unless the co-operation of the general public, which means every individual member, is secured to the greatest possible degree, it is feared that the dangers of fire will also be again forcibly brought to the attention of the public in the months to come, in newspaper reports of disastrous conflagrations, in details of homes and property which have been destroyed, un pityed people being forced out of their buildings to suffer the agonies of burns and frostbites for weeks or months in local hospitals and in some cases, of charred human remains being discovered in the blackened debris of once happy homes.

If the lessons which are taught during these annual fall campaigns are taken fully to heart and the precepts therein propagated are remembered and rigidly put into practice, the winter will pass with few, if any, of these horrifying accidents appearing in the newspapers.

For it is axiomatic, that the greatest majority of fires, and particularly those which occur in occupied houses, and the outcome of carelessness, either engendered by ignorance or negligence and in most cases the lack of there very few people nowadays who are not fully conversant with the dangers of fire and the precautions which should be taken to prevent them.

Such a lack of carelessness is a natural tendency because of a laissez faire attitude. The house owner, frequently, is well aware of the spots in his heating system and fully intends to remedy them, but because of pressure of other things, neglects to make repairs, clean the chimneys and pipes or provide better protection where the stovepipe passes through a wooden wall, until it too late and the damage is done.

But there are other causes which are equally attributed to more than a hazy failure detection, when negligence becomes positive and might reasonably be registered in the criminal class. Reference is made more particularly to the habit, all too frequently adopted in this country, of speeding up a sluggish fire, or starting one, with coal oil or gasoline. The dangers of this practice must be well known. Too many oil lessons have been learned from the past, yet the practice has not been abandoned and dire consequences have ensued.

The use of coal oil is dangerous enough but when gasoline is used, either with intent or unwittingly, a disaster is not only invited but is almost inevitable.

Even in mid-September, long before the advent of the season of continuous firing, reports appeared in the daily papers of lives sacrificed to this "human error" of rekindling dying embers by pouring coal oil over them. Fortunately in one case recently reported, the victim was a bachelor living alone and his rash act was not visited by death to others than himself.

But when fatalities are not so easily accounted for, the practice which gives pause and causes alarm to those in the French say, in contemplation of the possibilities that lie ahead in the winter months when fires will be multiplied enormously and when stoking the furnace will be practically a continuous operation.

Raked over the ashes of the last few years for standards for six months of the year, or more, the prairie provinces afford a perfect stage setting for fire disasters and this should be ever borne in mind by every resident.

In this country the risk of disaster is always potential even where proper precautions are taken, but where these are neglected the risks are multiplied, perhaps a thousandfold, possibly a thousand times.

No mention has been made of a board. The sailors will learn to handle the sailing boat in any weather, and do all the work demanded of an expert crew.

Mrs. Peers, who is Commodore of the newly-formed Union of Seafarers, told a Sunday Chronicle reporter how she trains her girl apprentices.

"Sea discipline is my first rule," she said. "My girls are never allowed to become passengers."

Sailing, the general handling of the ship, knotting and splicing, chart reading and navigation are all in their curriculum.

"Most of my girls come from the North and the Midlands. They generally try to get small boats of their own. This qualifies them for membership of the newly-formed Union of Women Seafarers."

In the end, before the winter fires are first lit, is the proper time to check over the heating system. If there is one, by inspecting and immediately remedying every potential cause of a subsequent outbreak and above all to adopt a solemn resolution that neither coal oil nor gasoline will be used in the stoves or the furnace under any consideration.

Given that we shall be the part of way to pass another unusual resolution that this preliminary work will be followed up by periodic inspections through the winter months, when there is always time and opportunity to look things over and remedy defects which may have developed.

Use Of Words

Convey Your Thoughts Clothed In Simple Phraseology

Short words have greater strength than long ones. Rigid economy in choosing language is in itself a valuable discipline of mind, and a good example of this, more, Charles Chaplin has announced.

The tramp sang his swan song, a jumbled story in "Modern Times" after a career that stretched back to pantomime to speech.

"I cannot say how soon the story will be ready—year, perhaps," Chaplin said.

Miss Dorothy Goddard will appear with him.

Would Ban Auto Horns

League of Women Voters, G. A. Hedges of the Ontario chapter of highways, told the Industrial Accident Prevention Association at a luncheon in Toronto, and "there would be a 50 per cent decrease in our accident rate overnight."

Manufacturers of all kinds of goods from steel gates to jewelry send their representatives to the London museums to study the exhibits for new ideas.

There's no danger in just taking a snuff of the flower, but the ordinary life of the valley contains minute quantities of the most powerful heart poison known.

Tragedy Of Frustration

Youth Of Canada Without Chance

The "spirit of frustration" is overtaking thousands of Canadian young persons, Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant-governor of Ontario, told Kiwanians at Hamilton. Dr. Bruce was seated at a luncheon of the 100 members of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritimes district of Kiwanis International.

"The spectacle of this modern world is not inspiring, with what we can see, and any considerable satisfaction," said Dr. Bruce. "Time and again our newspaper makes us very grateful probably that we live where we do."

"Let us glance at something newer now—the tragedy of lives that are purposeless, the tragedy of a new generation of youth, unwanted youth, youth that throughout the years of the depression has had to face challenges to adolescence to young manhood and womanhood with unemployment as its familiar companion."

"Fortunately there are, I am glad to say, some organizations which do their utmost to find work for these youngsters and teachers do a great deal of voluntary work to secure positions for boys and girls leaving school," he continued.

Dr. Bruce said he was "delighted" with the federal government's recent decision to vote $1,000,000 for the establishment of youth throughout the Dominion.

An All-Girl Crew

No Men Are Allowed On English Training Ship

A crew of nine women, commanded by a woman skipper, will "man" the 100-tonne "Jannia" which she sailed from the River Dee in England for a fortnight's cruise to the Scilly Isles and France. Skipper Mrs. Charles Peers, wife of the well-known racing artist, has been engaged as the ship's cook and steward. She is the first woman to command a ship.

Miss Peers said she had "delighted" in the federal government's recent decision to vote $1,000,000 for the establishment of youth throughout the Dominion.

The crew includes a cook, a baker, a shop and office girls, and and a maid, all paid a premium and are signed on as apprentices.

No men are allowed on board. The sailors will learn to handle the sailing boat in any weather, and do all the work demanded of an expert crew.

Mrs. Peers, who is Commodore of the newly-formed Union of Seafarers, told a Sunday Chronicle reporter how she trains her girl apprentices.

"Sea discipline is my first rule," she said. "My girls are never allowed to become passengers."

"Most of my girls come from the North and the Midlands. They generally try to get small boats of their own. This qualifies them for membership of the newly-formed Union of Women Seafarers."

To Extend Trade

Move To Increase British Shipping

The London Daily Mail, commenting on a prospective agreement to increase British shipping in the Pacific, said the British Government "must be prepared to go to the length of making a loan to us and to secure a fair field and no favor in the Pacific . . . subsidy must be met by subsidy and restrictions by counter-measures."

"It's," the paper said, "Britain's ships are granted help as substantial as their foreign rivals. It won't be long before our ensign again is supreme in the Pacific."

In Canada, Prime Minister Joseph Lyons and Admiral W. J. B. Ward, was prepared to co-operate with Canada, New Zealand and the United Kingdom to enable a shipping company to construct two new liners for the Pacific service between Canada and Australia.

Danger From Overeating

Says Fat People Are More Susceptible To Diseases

Fat people are more likely to derive the energy from their foods as the average person and are less prone to diseases and respiratory disorders, it is claimed by Dr. Burgess, a distinguished professor of medicine at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

At the 45th annual convention of the British Columbia Medical Association, Dr. Burgess told of his findings 120 pounds who remained indoors during three years because he was a subject of laughter. His starch in bread alone was 10 days a day.

Overeating, said the Philadelphia operator, is a disease, sometimes hereditary.

"Erin Go Bragh" means "Ireland Forever."

Through A Glass Darkly

Latest In Film Seen To Have Originated In Hollywood

Various explanations of the rage for dark glasses have been offered; among the plausible ones, the genealogy that traces it to Hollywood, suggesting so many stars wear them nowadays. It is said the celebrities there took no wearing these cheaters as a sort of domino to conceal identity from their more forward admirers.

Their use against beach gowns and the squat that beauty in Hollywood and elsewhere will not risk even for a few hours lest it aid the ravages of time is a popular explanation. A common one of all, of course, is that they save eyestrain in glaze of all kinds for man, woman and child.

According to reason and plausibility of these accounts, though, it is plain that the rage for seeing through a glass darkly is sublimating from utility into a fetish. If the thing goes on dark glasses will be worn against 60-watt lights, candle-light or moonlight, even.

It is fanciful to suggest that they may come into the category of the eighteenth century fad of the "foppish spot," aids to conquest that make blemish and conceit a point of loveliness and sometimes cover a lack of it?—New York Herald Tribune.

Noiseless Street Car

Has Rubber Wheels Which Operate Silently

Development of a noiseless street car with new standards of comfort was described to the tariff board by George Gray, president of the Canadian Streetcar Association.

The car had been designed at the instance of the United States Transit Association. Gray said, and $1,000,000 had been spent in experimental work before it had been put into service.

"It is an attempt," he added, "to standardize on a vehicle that will compete with buses and private cars." The street car at from $15,000 to $100,000 a unit.

As developed it has remarkable powers of acceleration and deceleration. It is silent compared with the clatter of the old streetcars having hard rubber wheels which run on tracks.

Some of the cars were running in American cities, Gray said, but there was none in Canada yet.

The Arc de Triomphe in Paris was built to commemorate Napoleon's victories; construction was started in 1806 and finished in 1836, by Louis Philippe.

Kept Tennis Crowd Moving

Spectators Stood Every Time Queen Mary Changed Her Position

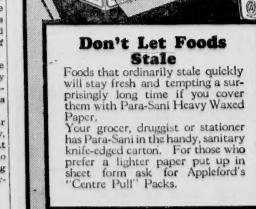

When the Queen Mother arrived on the last day of the tennis tournament at Wimbledon, the fifteen tennis spectators around the center and court stood up in unison, while the players bowed from the court. That is a custom that is always observed. Around six o'clock Queen Mary arrived in the tennis pavilion. The spectators stood up in unison when Her Majesty leaves the grandstand. But to stand up again, she had just stood up again. So they just stood up again, and stood up to the sun. A suppressed chuckle ran round the stands, and a chuckle by fifteen thousand people, even if smothered, makes a good noise.

The Queen was described as having hard rubber wheels which run on tracks.

Some of the cars were running in American cities, Gray said, but there was none in Canada yet.

Keeps On Making Cheese

Product Of Saskatchewan Dry Belt Of Superior Quality

Charles Bush operates a cheese factory at Lisleau in Southern Saskatchewan. And he says that there is no place where there is no pasture for cows. At first glance it looks as though Mr. Bush should have folded up his cheese plant and gone out of business.

But he keeps on making cheese and it is of sufficiently high quality to win awards against cheese produced in modern cold storage plants in Regina and Saskatoon.

The dairy farmers who deliver milk to the Bush cheese factory, and these cows have nothing to eat but Russian thistle which appears to delight in growing where nothing else will make a showing.—Peterborough Examiner.

THE YELLOW BRIAR

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside
By PATRICK SLEATOR

"Ah, Bobbie, old man, of these days you may be going on a long journey, too," I whispered to him; and after a long pause, I slipped around to the woodshed to get me a smoking pipe.

We sat down slowly back to the house, conversing about old times, yet the conversation did not seem to shorten the journey.

"I've always had a shrewd hunch, Bob," I explained, "that righteously, the little red-headed folk have their living quarters under the trees somewhere overhead, and I just going to dig down a little and see if you can find them."

"The old man, drawn by the edge of a little pit I was digging, and watched me with fitful interest.

"Now just look down there carefully, Bobbie, with those old eyes of yours," I said, "and if you're truly beside me, you may find out the wonder of the world."

Bob O'Farrell Piltago never knew in this life what happened to him; and if he awoke in another, his old heart would still beat with the sight of him. I choked at the thought of shoveling the moist cold earth over his quivering body. A silly notion, of course, it was, but away I slipped down the hillside and view God's handiwork, leaving its sprawling headlands to shelter the vineyards and peach orchards of the Niagara peninsula, the warm fruitful plains of Burlington, and, further to the west, the great land flowing with mud and honey.

The sun was now fully down the twin-line Pale in the moonlight, spread out before me a shadow-shut road that led on a long journey from love.

Then I lay down a fever and my head began spitting. I trudged along, fortifying myself with heavy drafts of self pity. I had done no wrong; yet here was fate overturning my little world about my head, as though the world in itself had lost all sense of lesser life in stubble field. "Woe's me! I was a poor creature born to punishment, at the hands of a blind force as I am, and had hastened as the Roman matron who sent her slave to be torn with stripes and nailed to a cross."

Riding in his heavens, the man in the moon had in derision said:

"'Tis well, I asked him, "dann an honest man to the torments of van longing?"

"Let me tell you, young and simple hearted, that I am indeed at me—a man seldom marries the woman he loves; and if he does, it is often a tragedy I find on my hands in my pale moonlight."

"But justice is the justice of it all," I cried.

"Don't ask me, the moon replied. To justify God's ways to man. It is a heavy task for my work to do. In your trifling world, human beings—these things are to do with man's mortal fate. It is lucky for most bawlers for justice that they do not get it. Since when," he inquired of me, "has the petty merits of mortal men concerned the stars?"

"Indeed, it is an interesting time I have up here, strolling around observing affairs."

"See that poor suffering man in the castle you're driving in child birth? The moon man enquired.

"She dies in the pain of giving birth to a man," said the man.

"But let me tell you, she died in the search for her lover, the Saviour who died for the likes of you."

"And where was the justice in that?"

"And what have you to do with the castle you're driving in child birth?" the moon man enquired.

"She dies in the pain of giving birth to a man," said the man.

"But let me tell you, she died in the search for her lover, the Saviour who died for the likes of you."

"And where was the justice in that?"

"And what have you to do with the castle you're driving in child birth?" the moon man enquired.

"She dies in the pain of giving birth to a man," said the man.

"But let me tell you, she died in the search for her lover, the Saviour who died for the likes of you."

"And where was the justice in that?"

"And what have you to do with the castle you're driving in child birth?" the moon man enquired.

"She dies in the pain of giving birth to a man," said the man.

"But let me tell you, she died in the search for her lover, the Saviour who died for the likes of you."

"And where was the justice in that?"

"And what have you to do with the castle you're driving in child birth?" the moon man enquired.

"She dies in the pain of giving birth to a man," said the man.

"But let me tell you, she died in the search for her lover, the Saviour who died for the likes of you."

"And where was the justice in that?"

And somehow as I trudged along his honest talk seemed to renew my serene and right spirit within me. Why all my vain repining? After all, I was twenty-three, and five foot ten. A long, fast walk is fine for sweating the annoyances out of a mind. I trudged along the ridge of Purple Hill, the day was breaking and the shadows were fleeing away. As I swung down it, and turned my face southward, I found myself whistling an Irish tune:

THE INNISKILLEN DRAGOON
Her hair is as brown as a wild turkey's wing,
Her eyes are as clear as the blue-bells of spring;
Am I light is her laugh as the sun on the water,
But the weight of the world comes between her and me.

Now what can man do when the world is against him?
And the weight of relations fall on him like snow,
He walks bold and barefoot and fare away far,
To follow good fortune and win fame behind everything behind him.

CHAPTER XII.

I was travelling in a southerly direction along Main-Ornate-Street, the old centaur truck-road that cut across the Province of Upper Canada from Lake Huron on the north to the mouth of the Credit River on the shore of Lake Ontario.

As I drove along, I saw something strange—the sharp edge of the Caledon hills; and standing there, a thousand feet above sea level, I looked out over a great undulating plain, broken by deep gullies, and sloping down to the eye of the lower lake. That long range of highland resembles the sharp shore line of an ancient inland sea, the waters of which receded long ago, leaving the land dry and vast.

STEADY PROGRESS

The Village of Champion have made splendid progress from year to year with a policy of careful management throughout the uncertain years which augurs well for future developments in the town.

The street gravel debentures of $200,000 have been paid off recently, and future plans for improvements will no doubt be viewed with interest.

RUSH WORK ON TWO WESTERN HIGHWAYS

Two announcements of special interest to the motoring public in this province were made recently.

They revealed the progress which is being made in the construction of highways linking the national parks of Alberta and the opening of a Pacific coast highway.

On the scenic highway which will link Jasper and Banff national parks, only 22 miles will be left to finish at the end of this season's construction program, according to an interview given to the Calgary Herald by Alberta Motor Association by James A. MacKinnon, M. P. for West Edmonton.

While the remaining 23-mile stretch will be costly construction, Mr. MacKinnon said he intends to press the Dominion government to build it next year.

When this park to park highway is completed, it will be given an oil surface by the federal parks authorities, following the general practice in surfaced highway construction.

The second announcement of great interest to Alberta and other western motorists was that only 50 miles is left to complete the Big Bend section of the trans-Canada highway between Red Deer, B. C., and Golden, B. C. When finished, the road will run through all-Canadian highway from Alberta to the Pacific coast. Already 177 miles of the Big Bend road have been built. With only 50 miles left to complete the project there are high hopes of this being done next year.

In reply to the letter of the People's League, Champion branch, in your issue of September 13th, we wish to state that we are sufficiently satisfied with the personnel of the Champion branch to know that no good purpose will be served by entering with them into a discussion of the point in question, that of morale.

It is a well known fact that people who are pre-judged are not open to conviction and we feel therefore, that it would be both a waste of time and good printer's ink.

May I add further, that it does not necessarily follow that because a man is opening a business, he is a business man any more than that much academic training does not always signify intelligence.

We trust therefore that certain points mentioned in Champion will not feel unduly annoyed if they were not included in the majority question, for we cannot conceive anybody who is alive and wide awake to conditions in this world today supporting a question of the propriety of an economic order which is rapidly turning into liabilities the assets of all.

Upwards of eighty percent of farms in this country are in Champion will not feel unduly annoyed if they were not included in the majority question, for we cannot conceive anybody who is alive and wide awake to conditions in this world today supporting a question of the propriety of an economic order which is rapidly turning into liabilities the assets of all.

Miss Anna Immonen returned home Friday, having completed her duties for the season at the Banff Springs Hotel.

Terry Nugent left Thursday for Custer to join the staff of The Advance, the weekly paper of that town.

A few from here attended the Protest meeting in Lethbridge Saturday evening.

From 1921 to 1930 under sound business government, so called, $760,000,000 more debt was added to the obligation of the Canadian people. In 1931 Canada's debts had increased to $81,480,000,000. By 1932 the total had increased to $22,741,021,805.00. Between the dates 1931 to 1932 the sum of $2,741,021,805 had been paid on account yet on March 31, 1932 the mortgage stock $81,500,000.

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics report lately issued 100,000 people are still today mortgaged to the amount of over $76,000,000.00.

$9,700,000 of a liability each young Canadian starts life with, according to the Bank of Canada's interest on which at 4% would be $120.00 yearly or $10.00 each month, and the amount is speedily increasing.

Laugh it off if it makes you feel any better, ridicule and belittle the efforts the only government in Canada is making to ease a load in a form of a loan, but consider the misery of the human race, the fact still remains that until the contract of credit becomes the prerogative of the state, issued instead of the banks, the public need not, on payment above par with the terms of King George's Mail. We believe it to be much more important to eat than to read, just so long then will debts continue to mount, taxes and living costs increase.

We hope that the day may not be far off when those who come to scoff, will remain to cheer.
